The House voted unanimously to reconsider the vote striking out the emergency clause, and it was restored to the bill under consideration.

Says Bankers Stirred It Up.
"Of all the things I have ever seen

"Of all the things I have ever seen body of intelligent men do," said Mr. Jordan, "there has been more blowing hot and blowing cold on this propo-sition. The bankers came to me and urged segregation of this tax and the charge of the regular State rate of 35 nts. It seemed to me a pretty big cut om $1.75 to 35 cents. If they had let this bill go on at 35 cents, collectible as before, it would have been enacted into law by now. But they were not satisfied, and asked for practical im-munity for taxation for more than $175,000,000 of property. They sent their representatives all over the State to stir this thing up, and because of the trouble and turmoil they have created, they jumped to a nominal rate. The very reasons they are advancing for a 2-cent rate are in their own pamphlet in support of a 35-cent rate." Mr. Reed, of Portsmouth, opposed the Jordan substitute, which provides for taxing money in bank at its source. It would put a premium on keeping money out of bank, he contended. Fur thermore, a man might check out several days before the annual tax day practically all of his balance, and i those checks were in the hands of other parties, or in transit, his bank would have no means of knowing on what actual balance he should be taxed.

Twenty-Cent Substitute Adopted, Mr. Stearnes moved to strike out 10 cents and insert 25 cents. As a sub-Thisse who object to liquid medicines can now procure Peruna Tablets.

The substitute was and insert 20 cents, and the pending question was ordered. The substitute was adopted—ayes, 52; nose, 58. An amendment offered by Mr. White exempting deposits of $100 or less from taxation, was rejected, as being of doubtful constitutionality. Mr. Montague moved to insert "or otherwise" after "money in bank," making the tax apply to money wherever, it may be located, which was adopted without objection. Mr. Montague in the bill, 10 cents should be for the keneral support of the government and in the bill, 10 cents should be for the keneral support of the government and 10 cents for public schools, thus returning indirectly to the counters and cities a part of the proceeds, which was agreed to.

Mr. Stearnes spoke against the bill, but the House was thoroughly tired

Here and There in the Legislature

A bill having the support of Messra. Radford, Gregory, Brewer, Huff, Buck, Milstead, Leedy, Land and Lowry, was introduced in the House yesterday providing for a uniform system of book, keeping in the offices of county and State officials, and enlarging the duties of the State Accountant. The bill allows the Board of Supervisors to have the aid of the State Accountant or some deputy designated by him in making examinations of the books of local officials at intervals, and provides a fee to be paid by the county for such services, the money to be paid into the State treasury. Additional deputies are Major J. N. Stubbs introduced a bill for the employment of a court steno-grapher for each Circuit and Corpora-tion Court, to take depositions and evidence in open court in chancery, common law and criminal cases, under direction of the judge.

Major Wubbs also introduced a bill authorizing the supervisors of counties and the Councils of cities to appropriate money to pay the expenses of Confederate veterans in attending the unveiling of the Virginia monument at Gettysburg.

Delegate J. Davis Reed, of Portsmouth, offered a bill yesterday for reduction of the general tax rate of the State. It provides for a tax on land and lots, ground rent and rent charges of 15 cents for the support of the government, 10 cents for schools and 5 cents for pensions. The same rate is made to apply to tangible personal property. On intangibles there is provided a general rate of 20 cents for the government and 10 cents for schools, making a general 30-cent tax rate in place of the present 25-cent State tax rate.

Delegate Willis offered a bill to give persons hauling baggage a lien on their charges.

As a solution of the much discussed rolling stock tax question, which has been before the General Assembly for years, and is now before the Supreme Court to determine the validity of an act providing for the apportionment of this tax among the counties, Delegate J. Davis Reed offered yesterday a bill for the segregation of the tax on rolling stock, furniture and floating property of railroad companies, making it liable to taxation by the State alone, and providing the State rate of $1.40 on $100 of value for the State, with no tax on this property for the counties and cities. Mr. Reed contends that a large part of the money would come back to the counties and cities for the support of the public schools, and that the segregation would be offset by this plan to reduce the State taxation on real and personal property.

NEW BANK TAX BILL IS COSTLY TO RICHMOND

City Attorney Pollard Writes Members of Local Delegation in Opposition to Hasty Action-Means Cut in Annual Income of $23,764.

probable weakening of the cause of tax segregation if a concession amounting almost to tax immunity is given to bank depositors as proposed in the pending bill. Mr. Pollard's letter fol-lows:

"Hon. E. P. Cox, Hill Montague, Graham B. Hobson, D. L. Toney and W. M. Myers, members of the House of Delegates:

Delegates:
"Dear Sirs,—I deem it my duty to bring to your attention, as a representative of the city of Richmond in the House of Delegates, the fact that the Senate bill now pending before the House concerning the taxation of bank deposits, if adopted, will deprive the city of Richmond of revenue in the aggregate amounting to $23,764.25. This diminution of the city's revenue at this time, coming as it does with the deprivation of the revenue from railroad rolling stock amounting to about $125,-000, the city can ill afford to lose.
"But apart from the foregoing, the "But apart from the foregoing, the measure is impolitic and unwise at this particular time, and for that reason alone should be defeated.

son alone should be defeated.

"Pointing out the ground upon which this statement rests, I beg to say that the only real tax reform conceded by every one to be so much needed must come from some general law segregating certain subjects of faxation for State purposes alone, but at the same time leaving untaxed by the State certain other subjects to which the counties, cities and towns will be relegated to secure their revenues, just as essential as the revenues of the State. The pending measure takes all of the tax for the State on bank deposits, but falls to lay aside or segregate for local taxation any other subjects.

"The bill can only be justified on con-land to lay aside or segregate for local taxation any other subjects.

"The bill can only be justified on constitutional grounds that it is a step in the direction indicated, though a short step, and at the same time it will seriously weaken the forces, all of which must be united, if any general segregation is ever had. Thus you must see that to pass the bill is to lose the influence of the banking interests of the State in support of general segregation. That that influence is potent is made apparent by the unusual celerity with which the measure was passed through the Senate and within a week after the meeting of the General Assembly is before the House for adoption, while other measures of tax reform are dormant in the breasts of members of the two bodies or slumber in the committees. "Another objection to the measure is that it will have the tendency to destroy the market for county and municipal bonds, for investors will greatly prefer to have their money remain in a bank practically exempt from taxation, on which they receive bank interest, rather than invest in county or city bonds, which would be subject to taxation held outside of the county or city issuing such bonds.
"In view of the foregoing. I her that
